US – Quinn aims to provide women with a safe online space for arousal without being faced with imagery created for the male gaze.

Launched last month by 22-year-old Caroline Spiegel, the website is described as a ‘turn-on community of anonymous people’ that allows users to approach fantasies with a more open mind: “We find that [videos are] extremely limiting in terms of your imagination,’ Spiegel tells Elite Daily.

Quinn is split into three sections: Tell, Read and Listen. With Tell, users can get creative and submit their own content. Read is dedicated to erotic fantasy stories and Listen is a space for audio porn.

Keep an eye on our Youth sector for an upcoming microtrend that will explore how Generation Z are approaching sexuality through a digital lens.
